For In-Vitro Diagnostic Use

1. Versus original FreeStyle Lite® Test Strips. Study conducted in August 2009. Data on file, Abbott Diabetes Care Inc.
2. P<.05. Among patients who expressed a preference. Data were collected using FreeStyle Freedom Lite® meters and OneTouch® Ultra® meters. Study conducted in October-November 2008 (185 patients). Data on file, Abbott Diabetes Care Inc.
3. As of May 2010 among leading brands in USA; comparison vs. OneTouch® Ultra® test strip for use with OneTouch® Ultra® meter.
4. You are responsible for the first $15 of each co-pay under your insurance coverage. Persons on high co-pay plans may have additional responsibility, but 8 out of 10 eligible patients pay just $15 co-pay per month for test strips through the FreeStyle Promise® Program. Void where prohibited. Co-pay assistance is not valid for prescriptions covered under Federal (e.g., Medicare) or similar State programs, and is not available for residents of the State of Massachusetts. Abbott can modify or rescind this offer without notice.
5. The information provided by the team of Diabetes Educators is for general background purposes and is not intended as a substitute for medical diagnosis or treatment by a trained professional. Please consult your physician about any health care questions you may have, especially before trying a new medication, diet, fitness program, or approach to health care issues.
6. Product provided as a free sample shall not be resold or submitted to any third-party payer for reimbursement. In Massachusetts, this offer is not available to any person with insurance or other third-party coverage for this product.

New and Improved FreeStyle Lite® Blood Glucose Test Strips are intended to be used with FreeStyle Lite® and FreeStyle Freedom Lite® meters only.
